Kanji Word Find

Work through the grid in this way, forming multiple chains of kanji. Each linear chain represents part of one large kanji. The shape of that big kanji should emerge when you find all the words. If the image isn't clear, lightly shade in boxes containing kanji chains. Now, what kanji do you see? How do you read it? What does it mean?
